Thursday Date Set For Opening New Line.

TRAM DRIVERS PUSH ALONG MULES

Manager Pain Trying to Keep the Animals Up to Times.

By Thursday next the trolley wire for the remainder of the Rapid Transit line on King street, between Alapai and Fort streets, will be strung and cars placed upon that section to connect at Alapai street with the track now being operated to the Walkiki road.

The track between Alapai and Fort streets is rapidly approaching completion in all respects save the stringing of the trolley wire, for which most of the poles are now in position. When this section is completed the business men who patronize the King street dlvision will be treated to a thoroughly up-to-date and quick means of getting down town to business. Even though there is a long wait necessitated by the switching back and forth on Alapai street, making the trip longer than by the tram line, yet the average citizen prefers the ease and comfort of the electric car.

Manager Pain of the Tramways Company has changed the running of his cars on King street slightly. He uses Fort street and the Waikiki turn, but has discontinued the Thomas Equare switch as a meeting point for the one opposite the British Consul's residence. There has been a quickening of the time of running these King street cars and it is not now an unusual sight to see a tram driver whipping up his mules into something of the semblance of a rapid gait to keep pace with an electric car. When two rival cars are Alapai street switch is reached by the electric car and a wait ensues, but that is the only time the Hawaiian Tramways Company has the opportunity. The proposed Walkiki extension of the Rapid Transit is a thing of the near future and when several matters resulting from the recent litigation in the courts over the right of way through McCully tract are settled, the road will be constructed with the same dash and spirit that has pervaded all other work on the Rapid Transit sys-

"JACK" SPRECKELS TO BE MARRIED

"Jack" Spreckels, son of J. D. Spreckels, of San Francisco, and brother of Miss Lily Spreckels, who is now visit- and plants. ing in Honolulu, is to be married to Miss Edith Huntington, grand-niece of the late Collis P. Huntington. The Examiner of June 27 says of the engage-

An engagement of unusual interest n society is that just announced of Miss Edith Huntington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard V. Huntington and grand-niece of the late Collis P. Huntington, to John D. Spreckels Jr., familiarly known as "Jack," son of J. D. Spreckels.

Miss Huntington made her debut last winter, and her beauty, combined with a sweet and candid nature, made society acclaim her as one of the most popular debutantes of the gayest season in San Francisco. She is a decided brunette, with expressive brown eyes. Her greatest charm is her girlish graciousness and simplicity of manner. She is and their daughter spent several months this spring in New York and other Eastern cities, and while there Miss Huntington was entertained lavishly and was acknowledged as a typ- jams and jellies, etc., etc. ical California beauty.

Mr. Spreckels attended Stanford University and is recognized in business circles as an able young man. In society he is most popular and his engagement to the beauty of the season is a source of congratulation from all of his

The wedding will probably not take place for a year or more. Miss Huntington is a devout Catholic, but her flance is not of the same faith, and it is not likely that the wedding will be a church affair.
